

The Hands and Feet of Jesus

July, 2015
Volume 36, Issue 7

With the uncertainty that has surrounded this move to Texas, I believe I can relate (at least on some level) to what Abram was feeling as God called him to leave Ur.

Then God...

Last week I got a call from a Church in North Dakota.

About seven years ago I led a SAY Yes! training there and people from three Churches attended. One of the ladies got excited and the last I heard (about 4 years ago) was she had started an after school program in her Church. They had a handful of kids and were open one day a week.

They have invited us back to train the new Director of their SAY Yes! Center.

They are now open three days each week and they have 29 kids attending!! They have developed a close working relationship with the local grade school and the principal of that school is a big fan of what this Church is doing to reach into the community and help the kids.

This last Christmas the Church provided gifts, a Christmas dinner and even trees for the families.

The really exciting part is that the Church itself has adopted the SAY YES! Center. This is no longer just the director who has the vision to reach out and touch the kids of their community. Now the Church is catching the vision of being the hands and feet of Jesus. What happened last Christmas was the result of many people within the Church responding to needs that are now more visible.

We are still dealing with uncertainty, but we are looking to God for our every need.

Thank you for what you are doing by praying for us and contributing to our financial support. We are your hands and feet as we reach out in Jesus name to people, families and Churches!

In His grip,

John
