Where To Next?

It was fun to chat with one of our supporters last night. We spent time catching up on family stories and discussing how ministry was going. Near the end of the conversation I was asked, "What trips do you have in store for this year?"

I laughed and said, "I guess it has become a pattern to have at least one or two trips a year. In fact we are planning now for a trip to London, England at the end of April for four weeks."

Our associates John and Sally Childress have now been in London for almost three years. From the moment they arrived God has opened door after door for their ministry to individuals with addictive behavior issues through All Souls Church.

They have used the elements of the Four Core Needs and the Cornerstones of Life is Full of Choices in with their material they have developed for this ministry.

John and I will be going to London to help the end of April to provide support for them, as Sally must have surgery on her foot. She needs to not walk on her foot at all for six weeks. During that time John Childress is doing three different seminars for the ministry. One of the seminars will be with John Emra sharing "Life is Full of Choices" material.

In all of this we give praise, honor and glory to the name of Jesus. We are humbled to be able to serve our Lord and share His love and care for those He puts in our path.

Bless you for your part in prayers and giving to make this ministry possible.

By His strength,

Sheryl

The Rest Of The Story

Sheryl and I have been working with Sally since she started volunteering at the Community Center in 1989. During that time she has become more than a co-worker, she is family.

We have helped her in times of trouble and she has helped us when we needed help!

We watched her relationship with John develop and we were at their wedding as they promised to love and cherish each other. That was a great day!

Then we lived together in community for about a year after they were married.

Our relationship with John has been shorter than Sally's but no less important to us.

They became a part of Life Is Full Of Choices in 2009 with the dream of taking the principles we teach to Europe. They have done that and now have a thriving outreach in London with frequent trips to Germany and beyond.

As you can see, they are important to us, not just because of what they do, but because their heart for ministry is in sync with ours.

We have been talking and praying with John and Sally for the past six months about her surgery. that God would control the timing, the doctor and hospital and all the people who's lives will be impacted by the presence of John and Sally.

I have shared all of this information to illustrate that as we were ministering to people in the inner-city of Los Angeles, God was ministering into our lives through John and Sally.

I hope you have someone in your life with whom you have this deep relationship. Over time you have grown together, prayed together, fought over issues, prayed some more and grown even closer.

Thank you for allowing us to go and help John and Sally through this time of recovery.

John

Answered Prayer

We appreciate your prayers during this time of grief for the passing of John's brother.

John is doing pretty well and the rest of the families doing about as good as can be expected.

Prayer Requests

Our next trip to England is on our hearts. Pray for our schedule of seminars, airline tickets and that Sally's surgery will go well.

To help with the cost write "England" on your response card.

Pray for the church in Dallas that has started a SAY Yes Program. That God would continue to bless both the adults who are mentoring and the kids who are attending.

We have been experiencing the chest cold that has been going around. We are getting better but it has taken a long time. Pray that we will continue to recover.
